

Act report

Table of contents

0. Introduction.....	1
1. Most common doggo type.....	1
2. Most common rated dog species.....	3
3. Highest and lowest average rating species.....	4
4. Ratings vs reactions.....	5
5. Highest and lowest rating.....	6

0. Introduction

This report aims to show some insights from analyzing data of a Twitter account named WeRateDogs. The site mostly rates dogs with rates that are above 100%. Don't ever complain about it Brent.

The site also uses the DoggoLingo.

After analyzing data from the account's tweets. Some insights are created.

1. Most common doggo type

If you're aware of doggo types, you're good to go. If not you can review doggo types.

The most common doggo type is pupper (mentioned 174 times). But never forget that they are all good dogs Bront!

```
pupper      174
doggo       54
puppo       21
floofer      8
Name: dog_type, dtype: int64
```

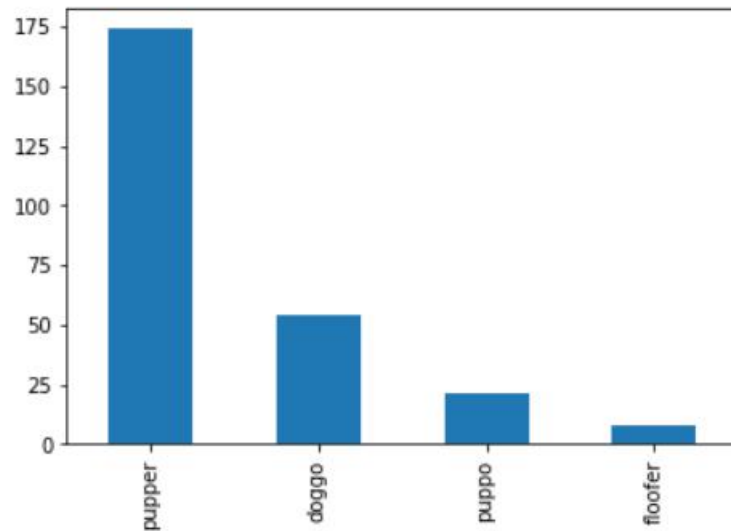

Fig1. most common doggo type

They also are rated with maximum rating (14) 4 times. Here are the 4 puppers.

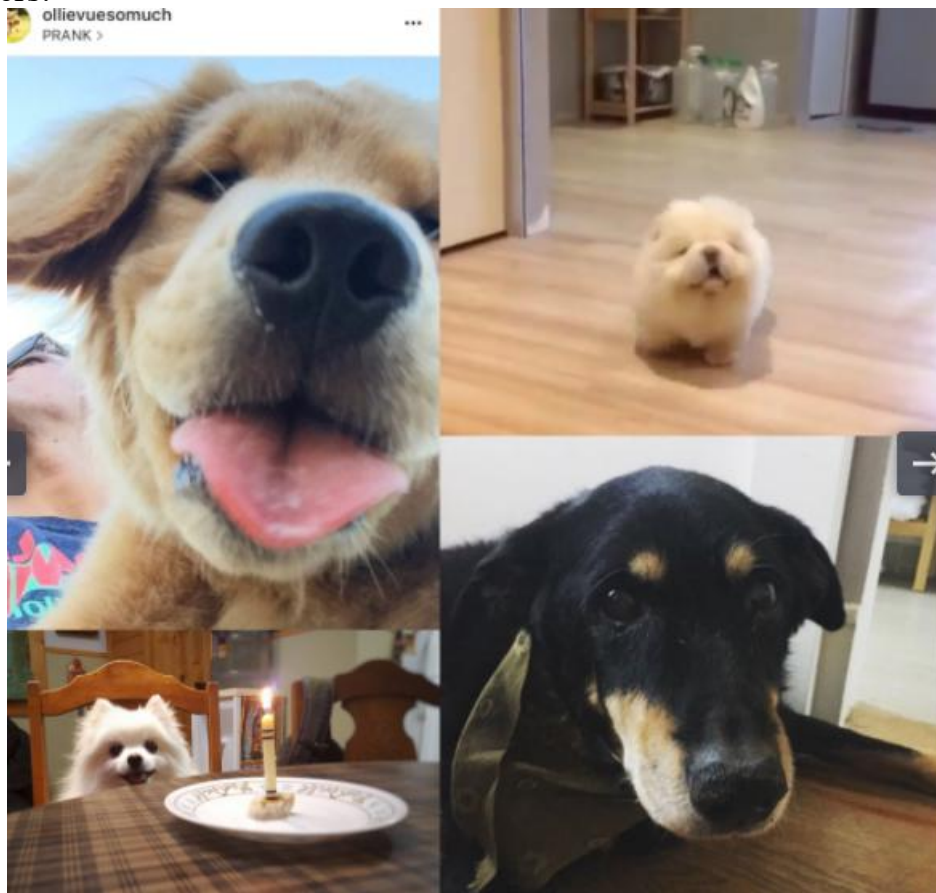

Fig2. 4 puppers with 14/10 rating.

2. Most common rated dog species

The most rated dog species is the golden retriever, rated 147 times. Also they are all good dogs Brent!

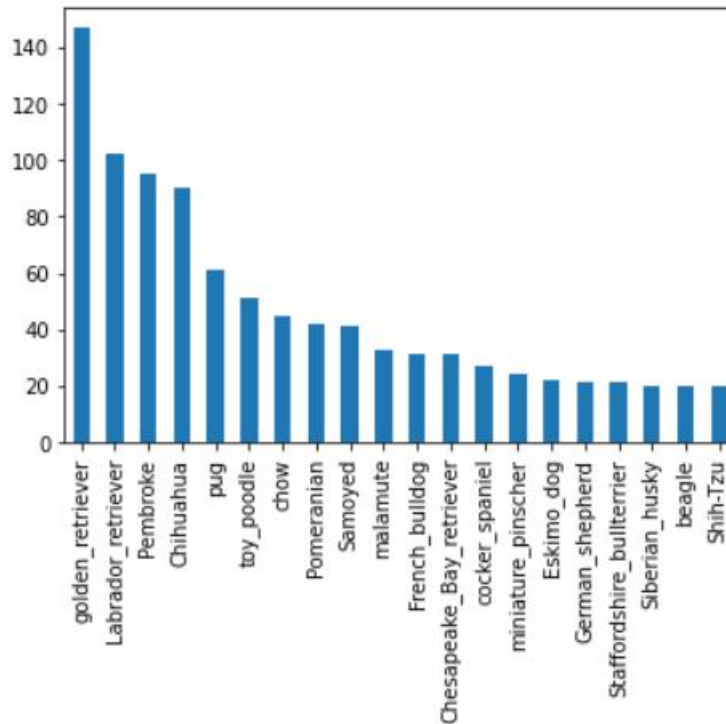

Fig3. most common dog species

They also received the maximum rating multiple times, Here is a picture of the 3 golden retrievers receiving the maximum rating(14):

Fig4. Three golden retrievers with 14/10 ratings

3. Highest and lowest average rating

species

Japanese Spaniel has the lowest average rating (5/10) while bouvier des flandres has the highest average rating (13/10). However, they are both rated 1 time. Here are them, I'll not tell you which is which.

Fig5. Highest and lowest average rated dogs

4. Ratings vs reactions

These are 2 plots of ratings vs reactions(favorites and retweets)

```

: df.plot(kind='scatter',x='rating_numerator',y='retweet_count',color='red') mplot.show()
  df.plot(kind='scatter',x='rating_numerator',y='favorite_count',color='blue')
  mplot.show()

```

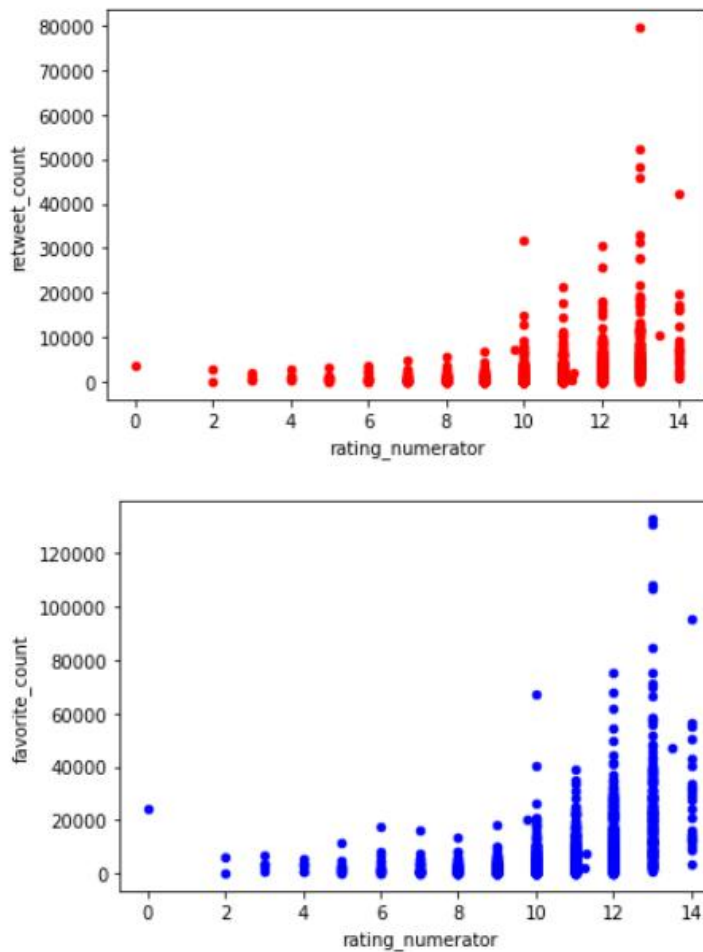

Fig6. Ratings vs reactions

It seems that reactions kind of increases with rating.

5. Highest and lowest rating.

14 is the highest rating while surprisingly zero is the lowest rating. But actually WeRateDogs were not rating a dog. They were rating another account which reposted their original post.

Here is a collage of the good doggos who received the maximum rating.

there are 24 dog(s) that received maximum rating

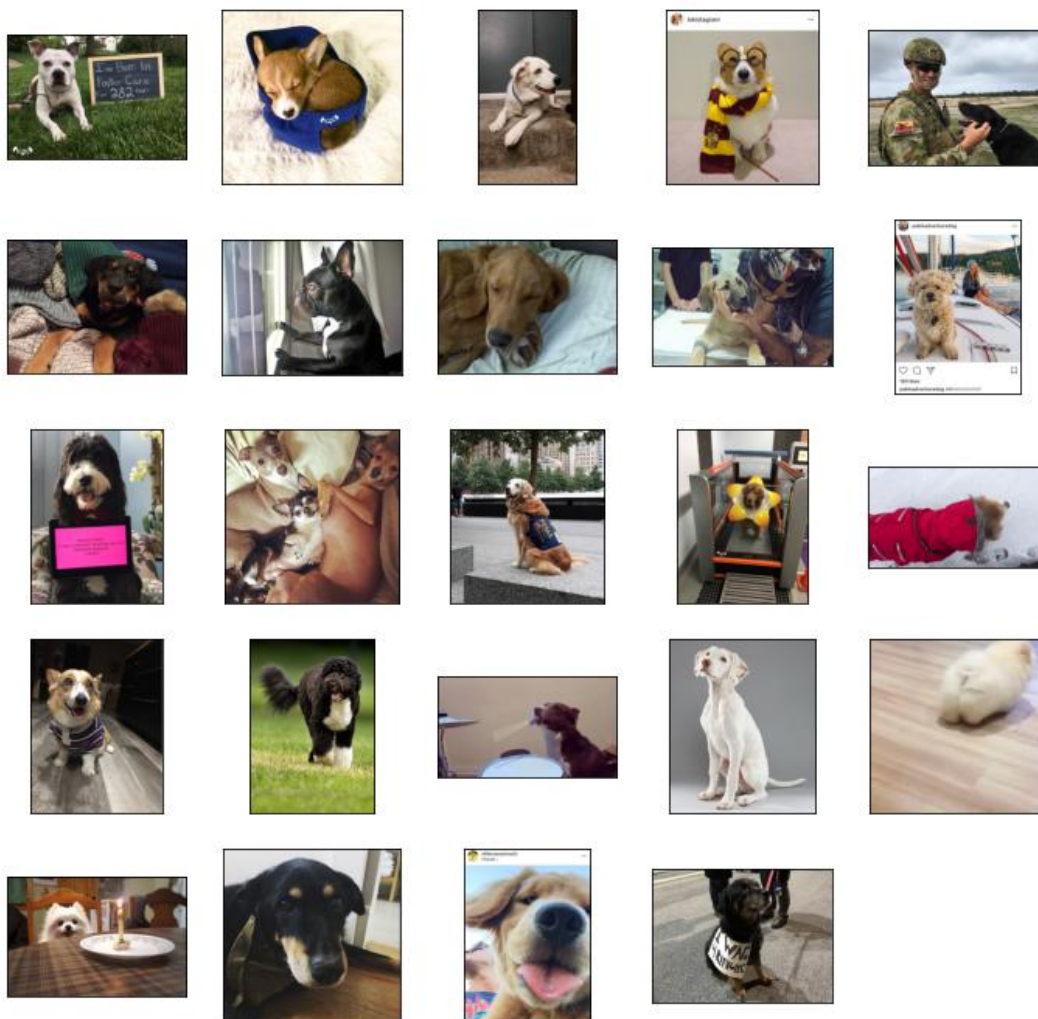

Fig7. Dogs that received 14/10